

FOUR LIVES SNUFFED OUT AT CROSSING

2 KILLED AS BIG BUILDING IS WRECKED

Four Other Cincinnatians Injured—Workmen Try To Extricate Bodies.

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 29.—With two men known to be dead and with four others injured, one perhaps fatally, as the result of the collapse of a four-story building here late yesterday, rescue crews, numbering 100 persons, labored feverishly today to clear away part of the debris where another man is believed to have been buried alive.

Hundreds of tons of rolled roofing paper, which were stored on the upper two floors of the building, are believed to have caused the collapse of the structure.

The first body, that of Howard Manford, 19, a shipping clerk, was extracted from the ruins shortly after midnight today. Harry Haverkamp, aged 18, another clerk, was taken from the wreckage of the building alive, but he died a short time later.

Robert G. Marks, 28, who was installing a recording device on one of the lower floors, suffered a fractured skull and will probably die, according to physicians. John Stephens, 18, a stenographer, Robert Thomas, 35, and Monroe Hamilton, 32, the latter two negro laborers, are the other injured.

Carl Westendorf, another stenographer, who was working on the second floor at the time of the building crash, is missing and he is reported to have been buried alive in the ruins.

The Southeast Joselyn Company, electrical dealers, occupied the two upper floors of the building, and the Finkbine Company, roofing supply manufacturer, used the third and fourth stories for a warehouse.

Wrecking crews, laborers and firemen, carried on the work of removing the debris early today. The 200 men, comprising the group, labored feverishly in an almost forlorn hope of reaching the entombed man alive.

Col. Charles E. Groce Says Circleville Is His Lifelong Hobby

EDITOR'S NOTE—It is the plan of The Herald to publish a story of a prominent Circleville resident in each Saturday edition. The first of this series is Col. C. E. Groce.

Colonel Charles E. Groce, one of our leading citizens, when interviewed was pleased to answer that his hobby is not playing golf nor collecting antiques, but that it is now and always has been "Circleville."

His father, John A. Groce, was born in this city in 1818, and he lived here during all his long, useful, happy life. Likewise the son was born here and all through the years he has been pleased to call Circleville his home, and his life has been filled with good deeds calculated to advance the best interests of his loved city.

Perhaps his anxiety for the welfare of his home town is largely responsible for his success as a citizen, husband and father. He was in only son, but had three sisters; Mrs. Lemuel Boggs, Mrs. Frank M. Shulze and Mrs. Bennett Foreman, all of whom passed into the great beyond.

BUSINESS CAREER.
The business career of Colonel Groce began when, as a lad, he became associated with his father in the pork packing business and continued in this enterprise for nearly sixty years and in that time made Groce Hams famous around the world. The pork packing business was sold to Rae R. Bales about three years ago.

He owns and operates large farms in Wayne and Perry townships and for many years has been in the grain business, with offices in the First National bank building on Court-st and he has grain elevators at New Holland and Atlanta. At one time he operated the elevators in this county, Ashville, Bell's Sliding, Elmwood, Atlanta and New Holland, and some years ago when it was difficult to obtain good seed corn he was the President of the Corn Growers' Association of the state.

Colonel Groce has been active in all good works; but perhaps there is none in which he takes greater pride than in the splendid accomplishments of the Circleville Benevolent Society, of which he was the first president.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian church and for thirty years was a member of the board of trustees. He was a member of the City Library Board for many years and served as a member of the city council for two terms, director of the First National bank and fraternally holds membership in the Elks and Masonic lodges, and is an honorary member of the Rotary Club.

The subject of this sketch was Captain of the Circleville Guards in 1877 and 1878 and his company saw service at the scenes of the mining troubles in this state. During the World War he was chairman of the Liberty Bond committee and had the exquisite pleasure of seeing Pickaway-co "Go over the top" every time, and every time by a wide margin.

"He gave our boys a few words of cheer and farewell as each squad marched bravely off to war, and he was chairman of the committee that gave them a rousing (Turn to Page 3, Please)

SENATE RAPS NAVAL PLANS OF STIMSON

Long Messages Have Been Transmitted To Secretary of State By Solons.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Senatorial furor over Secretary of State Stimson's expressed willingness to put the United States into some form of a political consultative pact at the London Naval Conference widened and spread today.

The opposition in the senate to any form of political pact at London has now reached such proportions that if Secretary Stimson heeds the warnings that have been cabled to him the whole project may die a-borning. Long messages have been transmitted to Stimson and other members of the American delegation in the past few days warning that certain senate rejection awaits any treaty of political character.

Stimson's efforts to ally senatorial fears by announcing that any pact entered into will be "negative in character" have not been successful. Apparently the more announcements that are made in London the more confused senate leaders become as to just what is being planned, and the more widespread the opposition.

Senator Swanson (D) of Virginia, the ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, joined with Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, and Senator George (D) of Georgia, today in criticism of Stimson's course in London.

"Over here," said Swanson, "it is contended that it (a consultative pact) means nothing, that the United States assumes no obligation under such a pact."

"In Europe it is contended that such a pact would be very effective in furnishing security to France and Italy, and consequently they could afford to reduce their naval strength."

"Both contentions cannot be right."

"If it means nothing as contended in America it is a shame and a delusion, giving fancied security to European powers; that the United States has no intention of discharging Great nations in their dealings with other nations should be frank and honorable and should not create false hopes."

Senator Stimson's opposition is of more than passing significance, for he is an old league of nations Democrat of the Wilsonian era.

Meanwhile, the very evident difference of opinion between the White House view and the Stimson announcement remains unexplained. At the very moment Secretary Stimson was announcing the American delegation's willingness to enter a consultative pact Washington was being apprised that President Hoover was staunchly opposed to any such undertaking.

WHITE HOUSE BANQUET.
Nothing has emanated from the White House since the Stimson announcement. The embarrassment and confusion between the Washington view and the London view, however, has been painfully apparent.

In these circumstances it was rumored today that fresh instructions had been sent to the American delegation to drop all negotiations for a political pact of any character, to negotiate a five-power naval reduction treaty if possible, or if that is not possible without a consultative pact, to attempt a three-power agreement and bring the conference to a speedy conclusion.

There was no confirmation of these rumors, likewise no denial. The White House and State Department are preserving an embarrassed silence.

COLLISION AT MARION GRADE ORPHANS BOY

Neither Flasher Lights Nor Gates at Dangerous Site in Ohio City.

MARION, O., March 28.—The lives of four persons today had been snuffed out by one of the worst grade crossing crashes in the history of Marion-co, and a 4-year-old boy, who escaped with only slight injuries and who spread the news after the crash, had been orphaned.

Roaring through the darkness over an alleged unprotected grade crossing in a sparsely populated residential district here, a big four dyer struck the victim's automobile, which had already crossed one set of tracks safely. Four of the five passengers in the machine were killed outright, and the fifth escaped miraculously.

Those dead are: Mrs. Nancy Stephens, 60; William J. B. Stephens, 33, a son; Mrs. Harriet Stephens, 27, the latter's wife; and their son, Ralph Stephens, aged 9. All were residents of Columbus.

Another son, Lester Floyd Stephens, 4 years old, was the only survivor of the tragedy, and was left an orphan.

Police sought vainly for a witness to the accident. According to the authorities, there are no signs of danger at the crossing. There are neither flasher lights nor gates at the crossing, they declared, and the victim "up God down the track was obstructed by street lights."

Lester, the 4-year-old boy, was thrown clear of the automobile when it was struck by the train. It is believed, although the police would not give an account of the accident. Frightened, he ran to the home of nearby relatives, to which the party was "enroute, and notified them."

The automobile was carried 300 feet down the track. One body was on the tender of the locomotive, another was extracted from the wreckage of this car, and two others were strewn along the right-of-way. All were badly mangled.

Re-organization of Peoples' and Drivers' Thought To Be Underway.

Efforts are being made in Washington C. H. for the re-organization of the Peoples' and Drivers' bank which was ordered closed by O. C. Gray, Cadiz, state superintendent of banks, early this week.

Nothing sensational caused the bank to be closed other than "frozen loans" which could not immediately be turned into liquid assets. This fact alone caused the state to take over the highly reputed institution.

The Ohio State bank at Washington C. H. has been named depository for all money and funds on hand while the state banking department is in charge of the institution.

Reptile Bluffer
One of the fiercest appearing snakes is a most harmless one. The blow snake, or puff adder, inflates its head like a cobra when disturbed, and hisses viciously. The demonstration is a pure bluff, as the snake is incapable of inflicting even a small scratch. When captured its favorite ruse is playing possum.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To my many friends:

I am a candidate for Representative.

I have been asked by many farmers, business people, and many laborers, to be a candidate for a county office this year; after very much thought, I believe that I can be of valuable service to the farmers, individual business, home owners, and all classes of laboring people in the next state Legislature.

Taxation, and the making of more political jobs to eat more taxes, will be the most important considerations before the next Legislature.

For the present I am not considering a strenuous house to house campaign excepting to make my race mostly through the local papers of the county, and a square shooting platform folder, which I hope to get into the possession of all the voters. Here is a few lines of what it shall contain:

No more laws, especially political job making laws

More common sense in our necessary laws.

Return to the people their voice in many of our state departments: which are now controlled by corporate and purely political interests. This will encourage the non-voter.

A square deal for the farmer, home owner, and small personal property owner in the classification law.

Decrease the legal graft of newspapers and blank book houses instead of the increase.

Increase home rule for Towns, Cities and Townships when consistent, instead of taking away. Encourage the non-voter.

Against the abolishing of the County unit in the house of Representatives.

Support our public schools and state universities; By a fair income tax on a sales tax on all tobacco, confectionery, amusements, shows, soft drinks, jewelry, musical instruments, automobiles, radios, patent medicine, stock foods and many other articles, not considered real necessities of life. Abolish all property tax for the support of our public schools.

Quit taxing thrift, labor, hardships and poverty. Start taxing pleasures, luxuries, waste and extravagance. This is the only way to make a part of the tangible and intangible property owners to pay a portion of our taxes.

I will have something to say about promises vs performances in my platform folder and through the press.

N. C. (Nate) Bohnert.

TRAINING CAMP SHORTS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Mar. 29.—Walter Johnson's nationals came here today for a two-game series with the Chicks. Johnson remained at his hotel in Chattanooga nursing a severe cold. Captain Joe Judge will function as acting manager.

The Nats has no difficulty in disposing of the New York Giants second nine at Chattanooga yesterday to win to the tune of 10 to 3. Ad Liska hurled premier ball for six innings against "Old Jack" Scott, veteran Giant moundsman, and then both retired. Hensel replaced Scott, in the seventh and was replaced by Kenneth Burke finished for the Nats, and Kenneth got him for a homer.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Mar. 29.—The Cleveland Indians today were scheduled to start their most intensive exhibition campaign of the spring training season. Eight games were on tap for the Tribe in the next five days.

One squad of the Indians was scheduled to cross bats with the New Orleans Pelicans, today and tomorrow, while another squad was to encounter the Shreveport club of the Texas league at Shreveport.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Mar. 29.—The Chicago White Sox arrived here today for another engagement with the New York Giants following an eventful day at Waco.

The highlights of yesterday's experiences were a revenge victory over the Waco Cubs which ended 8 to 4 in favor of the Chicagoans; a bright shining sun; and the appearance of C. Arthur (The Great) Shires in uniform for the first time.

Quiet and earnest of mien, Shires went to work and accounted for some spectacular fielding.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Mar. 29.—Another victory was in the Pittsburgh Pirates' bag today after a last inning rally against the Chicago Cubs yesterday which was started by George Grantham's second home run of the afternoon.

The Cubs, due principally to a last minute blowup, lost the game by a 9 to 8 score. The Pirates hauled out with four runs in the last of the ninth inning.

FORT WORTH, March 29.—If it does not rain, is not too cold or does not snow, the Giants will resume their fling with the Chicago White Sox today. In San Antonio yesterday cold cancelled a game between Keely Field soldiers and the McGrawmen. Manager McGraw continued to complain because many Giants were not in shape and classed Freddie Lindstrom as not ready yet to play third base.

MOBILE, March 28.—Van Pelt and Gomez. Somewhat strange names these but they may be more familiar, for this pair of juvenile pitchers hurled the Yankees to victory yesterday over the Mobile bears. Eleven to one was the score.

CLEARWATER, Mar. 29.—It rained again and yesterday's Robin-Toronto game was a washout.

at Tarpon Springs but the two teams clash today. Babe Herman may appear in the Roblin lineup as he has arrived in camp and was reported ready to sign a $15,000 contract.

are "coasting" in fancied security. The zeal shown in solicitation on the part of many of the candidates amounts almost to desperation and the next few weeks will see such balloting as will break all records. Ambition is good to see anywhere, and the good nature prevailing is another indication that the campaign is proving a marked community success.

By getting hold of a position in the front ranks now, candidates will assure themselves some advantages for the finish. The last few days will find all candidates wishing they had put in a little more time and effort in the earlier stages. Opportunity never waits, remember that.

This week we have an offer allowing several hundred thousand prize winning votes, yet much smaller than the offer which was in effect last week and yet again a great deal larger than any future offers. The wise candidate will take advantage of it HARD.

BLAME STORM FOR DEATH OF DRIVER

WOODSFIELD, O., Mar. 29.—The blinding snow storm was held responsible for the death of George Egger, aged 77, of Miltonsburg, who was instantly killed last night when his automobile skidded from the road, near here, and overturned.

Egger's son, Albert, 22, escaped unhurt. The accident occurred on the Woodsfield-Barnesville road.

The aged man is believed to have applied the brakes on his automobile suddenly. The car skidded on the slippery surface of the snow and overturned into a cornfield.

Eight Made Much Trouble
Three pillages in the Savoie valley, near Lyons, France, were planned, into darkness when an eagle flew into the overhead electric cables which serve the district with power. Workmen spent a whole night trying to locate the cause of the breakdown and in the morning found the bird electrocuted just outside the village of Longefroy, which with Tessens and Mascot, had been without power.

Followed Master in Death
The old donkey which once carried Georges Clemenceau died just a few weeks after its famous master. This donkey, which was more than thirty years old, formerly pulled the small cart which carried the Tiger about the small town of Bernouville, where he was a councillor.

Denoting Time
The correct abbreviation for noon is 12:00 m. the m standing for the Latin "meridies" or "noon." Midnight is correctly designated "12:00 p. m." meaning exactly 12 hours past noon, though to avoid confusion many writers prefer to write it in full as "12:00 midnight."

Musical Comedy Star To Wed Sportsman

Marilyn Miller, petite blonde musical comedy star, is altar bound. Marilyn's third husband will be Michael Farmer, sportsman, well known on the Riviera. The date for the ceremony has not been settled. The glorified dancer has known Michael for a long time.

ASHVILLE

The revival meetings which are now going on at the U. B. Church is well attended and much interest manifested. Meetings were held every night last week, and will continue this week. Mrs. Emblem of Columbus gospel singer, leads a song service every evening for half hour or more. She has an interesting way to hold little children, there are 25 and some times more each evening.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock she had a party for them at the church.

Mrs. Stanley Smith was in Columbus Saturday on a shopping trip.

Mrs. Sarah Fridley was one of the invited guests to attend the old Folks Tea at Lazarus Tea Room Monday. There is always a big crowd attends this annual affair.

Mrs. Elda Behnke and daughter Dorothy Dell of Lodi, O. spent the week-end with her father, Rev. T. M. Ricketts.

Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Smith spent the week end at Mr. Smith's home for a monthly meeting Thursday near Amanda.

Miss Cleora Dunnick was called to Columbus, Wednesday evening by the death of a sister-in-law, Mrs. W. R. Dunnick.

The local W. C. T. U. held its re- after noon March 20th at the home of Mrs. Sofia Briggs. Nearly 30 responded to the roll call. After the business was disposed of, the directors of Evangelistic Dept. Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, had charge of the program, which consisted of chapel readings, gospel songs and sentence prayer.

CHICAGO JACK THOMPSON GIVES McLARNIN BATTLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, March 29.—For a matter of a few minutes last night, the god of the galleries they call Jimmy McLarnin tottered ominously on his pedestal, his infant face wearing a pained and rumpled expression, his hair awry and his nose a blot of blood. He looked the part of a defeated fighter going into the sixth round but, just as the game fish swims against the tide, so did McLarnin come on against a torrent of leather to show from Young Jack Thompson at the end of ten rounds that will be remembered long after many a present day fighter is forgotten.

It was a great fight and a great fighter won it. In fact, it took a great fighter to beat Thompson last night, although many in the crowd of 20,000 will enter a demurrer on both counts. That is, many doubted the evidence of the verdict and still more of them felt that McLarnin missed greatness by a unanimous mile.

They are telling the neighbors today that James has lost the snap of his punch, that somewhere between the Goldstein knockout of a few months ago and the Thompson fight last night, McLarnin has degenerated into a commonplace mauler.

They do both McLarnin and Thompson an injustice, James still can punch the head off any man who gives him long-range action, just as he always could. But Thompson was not that kind of a mouth organ last night.

Age and the Feelings

I oppose, as I would every one less fear in man, the lamentation that the feelings grow old with the lapse of years. It is the narrow heart alone which does not grow, the wide one becomes larger.—Jean Paul Richter.

THE IMPORTANCE OF LENT

There is no season of the year that has a greater religious significance and appeal than Lent which is widely observed throughout Christendom. It is a period especially adapted to the cultivation of the spiritual life. It is natural and proper that we should have periods of time set apart for the developments of our spiritual natures. We recognize the need of physical exercise and so we play golf, tennis, basket ball and other games. To keep the mind from getting dull and to make us more alert, we read papers, books and magazines. Schools are maintained for the cultivation of the mind.

To be properly developed, the third part of our being, the soul, must not be neglected. For this purpose, Lent is observed and the church offers the best means of observing it by means of prayer, Bible reading praise and meditation. At What Age in Life Should A Minister Give Up His Pulpit Service?

Some denominations have a rule that a minister should retire at 65 years of age. In other denominations, a minister is retired when he fails to have a call from a church. The question of health determines his retirement often.

C. F. GOELLER

There is a popular sentiment in favor of the young men in the ministry which is moving the age of retirement forward. Rev. Bruce Ware, in the Christian Register, says regarding this tendency "It is a fallacy that a man who has lived 70 years or even longer is not fully able to perform his duties as he was when younger. In fact, many men are better fitted at that time to give good service to the community because they have had long experience in worldly affairs which gives them mature wisdom and knowledge how to handle men, church, social and business matters in an intelligent and skillful way."

"Would you say that Edison is unfitted to continue his wonderful inventions or that Justice Holmes is not doing good work on the Supreme bench? A man may be senile at 50, but that is no argument that every man 50 years old should retire. It is my opinion that until it is proved that a man is worthless at 80, he should still bear his burdens and carry on his duties as before."

Creamed Comments
On S.S. Lesson

The twelve lessons of this quarter show how Matthew planned to persuade the Jews that Jesus was in truth the Messiah. He linked up the facts, the teachings and works of Jesus with prophecy, endeavoring thereby to show that it would be no fallacy of judgement or failure of faith to honor Jesus and worship as the son of God.

Lesson I The Childhood of Jesus—A new star has ushered in the birth of Jesus that drew wise men from the east to worship him, and still wise men are worshipping him.

Lesson II Baptism and Temptation of Jesus—Jesus was ushered into his ministry through the ordinance of baptism and the ordeal of temptation. The baptism was a sign or badge of his messianship; temptation is the price to be paid for our free agency and moral responsibility.

Lesson III Jesus Begins His Ministry—However bad and discouraged the world in which he lived, Jesus had a message that matched all its needs and power to cure all its troubles.

Lesson IV Standards of the Kingdom—The beatitudes is a mountain sermon with power "to set this inharmonious world in tune and cause our jarring lives to grow to mellow music."

Lesson V Putting God's Kingdom First—The first of three petitions of the Lords prayer seek the honor and happiness of God, for only as we are in right relations with him can we be right anywhere else. The prayer drops down to our human needs and immediately bounds back to the things of the spirit.

Lesson VI Warnings and Promises—The root of the golden rule is kindness, by which we recognize in others the same kind of life we have in ourselves and are to treat them as we would have them treat us. The test of discipleship is not talking about Jesus but in doing his will.

Lesson VII Jesus Healing and Helping. The helplessness of the paralytic throws a flashlight on the condition of the sinner and the as-assistance of the four friends who took him on a bed to the Saviour shows how we must all help one another. At the point where human help reached its limit, divine help intervened.

Lesson VIII.—The Twelve Sent Forth—The twelve were chosen to be trained in the teachings and work of Jesus and they were at once given some preparatory practice. Their message was the greatest that could be given to the world—the kingdom of heaven. The kingdom of heaven in earth has not yet had its chance because the kingdom program has not been taken seriously.

Lesson IX. Jesus Teaching Himself—Jesus did not blame John for his doubt, nor answer his questions dogmatically, but sent him more facts and told him to work that answer out for himself. Jesus willingly and gladly did his work in the midst of wickedness and thanked God that there was some that understood; it was his joy to give rest to the weary, caring for all needy.

Lesson X. The Parable of the Sower—Parables are pictures of truth. The parable of the sower illustrates four kinds of soil-hearers. The point of the parable is that as much depends on the soil as on the sower of the seed, on the hearer as on the preacher or the teacher.

Lesson XI. Parables of the Kingdom—The mustard seed illustrates a small beginning that has a large ending. The leaven illustrates the secret inward work of the truth; the kingdom must be sought; the pearl of great price illustrates how compact and portable is the value of the kingdom, the dragnet illustrates that the bad mix with the good even in his company.

Lesson XII.—Jesus Teaching and Healing.—The Canaanitish woman by her persistency, her humility, honesty, her spirit of worship, her open confession all worked for her a victorious faith. There is a place for the worst sinner in his kingdom.

To entertain beautiful thoughts is to hang the world's masterpieces in the gallery of one's mind

Eleanor, an American heiress, was well rendered by Eleanor Luellen.

Miss Pellug, An English Tutor, Virginia Smith, was pleasing in her part.

Richard Stoneybroke, alias Captain Crossbones, was indeed excellent in his acting both as an American and as a disguised Pirate.

Anthony Law, the Legan advisor, was well played by Raymond Tomlinson.

Bill Pilgrim, a retired pugilist was quite well played by Earl Anderson.

Kitty, the Postmistress, was well rendered by Clarabel Rihl.

Zim and Zam, guards, played by John Corcoran, and Thurman

Frazier created laughter on the part of the audience at their very appearance.

Butlers, Robert Baird and Everett Urig, in like manner afforded much comedy.

Spanish relatives also as Pirates were quite splendidly played by Fred Corcoran, Charles Hastings, Donald Carter, Wilbur Warner, Lawrence Ater, Emerson Hurley, Geigle Bently, Ralph Gatton, Burdette Timmons, Louis Coot.

CONCERNING THE CENSUS

The census is an enumeration of the count of the inhabitants of the United States. It has a more important feature than this though, as it collects useful information about the people and about their homes and farms. The taking of a census every ten years is required by the Constitution of the United States.

A census taker will call at your home some time in April. President Hoover, when issuing his proclamation calling for the 1930 census, stated, "No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required. The census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with compulsory school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, state, or local law or ordinance. There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing information every employee of the Census Bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may thus come to his knowledge."

"Uncle Sam" needs the census figures in his national housekeeping. He needs this knowledge for the enactment of good laws and the wise direction of public affairs in the interest of all the people. Everybody who answers the census questions truthfully and promptly aids in this important work," stated W. M. Stewart, Director of the Census.

"BUSYBODY" IS CLASS PLAY

"The Busybody," a three-act farcical comedy, has been chosen by the seniors for their class play which will be presented May 15 and 16. The play is a Longman's Green and Co. Fifth-Ave. New York copyrighted royalty production.

The version of the play will be presented in C. H. S. as an exact George Choo's production is presented at the Bijou theatre, and will be under the supervision of J. Wylie Fetherlin, director of many C. H. S. successes in the past, who announces that practice will be begun as soon as books are received.

The cast includes 16 characters eight males and eight females. The character parts are Mrs. Culpepper, the mother; Miss Hammer the old maid; Hilda, the maid-servant; Prof. Kelp, The Lady Across the Hall, otherwise known as Baby; and Ernest Cadman.

The romance of the farce is furnished by Sally Culpepper and Archibald Stubbs, her fiancé; Edward Culpepper and Rosamond Rossmore, a wealthy young widow; and by Minerva and Mr. Cadman. The comedy is supplied by the janitor, The Lady from Downstairs, who see all, hears all and tells all; the Chief of Detectives, Ignatius F. Cassidy, and two other detectives.

Tuesday and Wednesday by try-out the parts will be chosen from the 19 girls and 12 boys competing. All seniors who have passing grades and who are not otherwise engaged, are invited to try out. Practices are to be held outside of school hours.

ASHBAUGH ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY

"There are two principles upon which the decision of what college to attend is based," said Dean Ashbaugh, of the department of education, Miami University, in chapel, Wednesday. "The two are the negative and the other affirmative." He proceeded to explain.

"The negative principle is, that one should not go to an unaccredited college. The affirmative is that one should consider the equipment of the school provided for the singular study required." He further explained the principles with different illustrations. "To know if he would make a success in college one should take a truthful interview of himself and see his characteristics, his ability and his likes and dislikes," Dr. Ashbaugh concluded.

EXPLAIN AIRPLANE MODELS

Circleville members of the Airplane Model League of America explained the principles of aviation and the construction of an airplane in chapel, Monday. R. L. The members of the league are Lincoln Mader, president; Otis Mader, George Ammer, Howard Ater, Harold Dresbach, Horace Gilmore, and Tom Kirwin.

SCHOOL TO BE DISMISSED

School will be dismissed Friday April 4 in order that the teachers may attend the State Teachers' Convention in Columbus.

Operetta Is a Success; Cast, Wittich Praised By Two Receptive Audiences

Another page in the books of C. H. S. successes was added by "In the Garden of the Shah," the three-act operetta, which presented to full houses Thursday and Friday nights, was a big success—musically, dramatically, artistically and financially.

Excellent singing, acting, direction, music, comedy, scenery and costumes put the operetta over with loud applause and approval of the exceptionally large audiences.

Helen K. Wittich and J. W. Fetherlin come in for their share of the laurels for their direction. C. F. Zaenglein and his orchestra with Elizabeth Roundhouse accompanist were on hand to present the best instrumental music in the best way.

Character contrast was a prominent feature of this presentation. All speaking parts handled by Thespians and members of All State chorus and with proper casting each received his share of applause.

The entire cast played its part with no obvious difficulty. The choruses, likewise, performed in a smooth running fashion. The excellent dramatics and vocal numbers of the characters showed that profitable practices had been spent to make the play so successful.

The scenery and costumes which were rented from Sullivan's Studio were elaborate. The scenery was appropriate and the elegant costumes, made of gay Oriental colors, caught and held the eye. Persian rugs thrown about added to the romantic realism.

Peggy Courtwright as Zohdiah will have to be complimented for her splendid singing and acting. Peggy surely displayed her ability to sing and act. Her voice, stage appearance and make-up met entire approval. She indeed showed that C. H. S. was fortunate to have a Princess like Zohdiah whose charm placed her in the front row of heroines.

Howard Greeno, the unwanted suitor, in true hero style wooed and won Peggy, his royal sweetheart. Howard again displayed his ability to sing and act with feeling. He and his audience were keenly enraptured. His mannerisms and hurried American speech set off the grace of speech and style of his Persian Rose. Their duets were especially charming.

Mary May Haswell who portrayed the part of Lohlah, Billy's sweetheart and Zohdiah's friend, pleasantly entertained the audience with her duets with John Heiskell, the mining engineer. This couple surely made a hit with their "Romeo and Juliet" scene. Mary May with ease received her usual approval in voice, costume and histrionics.

John Heiskell, an American miner, played his part well and with individuality. He made a good appearance and the audience was receptive to his duets with Mary May Haswell. He and Lohlah successfully combined youth, romance and lyrics.

Margie Hunsicker as Nowobeh, Zohdiah's governess, provided many a chuckle for her audience. Margie was the one who made you wish that such a change might occur more frequently. She played her part equal to her character costume, which was realistic in extreme.

Hugh Cartwright as the colored Samuel Jackson Johnson put the audience in an uproar at each appearance. Hugh continually typified the stage blackface. The audience was always reluctant to see him exult. His conclusion in that "The Taming of the Shrew, Won't Work" because he had failed to tame his wife was ludicrous.

The comic dance of Sam and Nowobeh also brought a big hand. Town critics say the team of Cartwright and Hunsicker gave a professional presentation.

Charles Kirkpatrick as the Shah an aristocratic noble, played his part with grace and class. He was always the drawing, easy-going head of a Persian family, except when his ire was aroused by the scheming Sheik who tried to win his daughter. Charles made a very dignified stage appearance. His songs, though difficult of execution, were pleasingly done.

James Brown, the dashing Arab Sheik, sang, strutted, and talked his Oriental way into the thoughts of all true admirers of stage villains. From what we have known of Jim, it must have been difficult for him to so "strongly" demonstrate his "power over women."

Elizabeth Roundhouse was indeed an accompanist par excellence. Elizabeth deserves much credit for her earnest and skilful work.

Stage manager, John Himrod was ably assisted by Theodore Blackston and Ruth Carothers. Their efficiency added to the smoothness of continuity and the effectiveness of the setting.

The high school orchestra's overture, conducted by C. F. Zaenglein, was an offering of joy appreciably received. They also ably accompanied solos and finales.

There were many beautiful chorus numbers with scintillating costumes. The choruses were stern in the "Bow Low" number, gay in "Honey Bee" number and gallant for the theme song "My Persian Rose." The men's and girls' choruses presenting clever ensemble dances to tuneful lyrics showed the careful training of Miss Wittich.

Those of the girls' chorus are: Ellen Leest, Dorothy Clark, Lucille Kirkwood, Cleo Brown, Doris Peters, Martha Mader, Mildred Ritt, Myriam Hitchcock, Iona Miller, Harriett Mason, Grace Steele, Mary Roth, Elizabeth Chad, Eloise Hanley, Doris Shonkweiler, Helen Yates, Pauline Acord, Jeanne Crowe, and Mildred Greenlee.

The boys' chorus was composed of: Malcolm Russell, Sheldon Mader, Linden Baughman, Ned Dresbach, Edwin Haacker, Joel Russell, Robert Rooney, Kenneth Henn, Loring Davis, Gerald Horn, Robert Rector, Andrew Goeller, Wilbur Adkins, Marian Mowery, Charles Brown, Edgar Clark, Earl Mill-iron, and Stanley Greene.

PROFICIENT TYPEISTS

In a speed test the following typed at the rate of 58 to 33 words per minute: Dorothy M. Glick, Lucy Miner, Betty Gephart, Estela Wilson, Dwight Wilson and Mildred Greenlee.

"The following who are eligible for a certificate of proficiency in typing, typed at the rates of 38 to 30 words per minute with from 1 to 5 mistakes: Iona Miller, Dorothy M. Glick, Gaylord Rose, Dwight Wilson, Josie Anna Collett, Berlin Noble, Lucille Kirkwood, Lucy Miner, Mildred Greenlee and Katherine Bockart," says instructor V. D. Keeler.

TICKET SELLERS USHER

These ushers were selected on a basis of number of tickets sold. They sold $124.60 in tickets of the total of all ticket sellers.

WHO IS IT?

This Senior girl is very light in weight and light in complexion. Her features are somewhat sharp, especially is this true of her chin. Her dark hair is cut in a short bob and curled. Her brown eyes are often seen to sparkle in harmony with her pert mouth which broadens when her emotions register glee.

Blue seems to be her favorite color and she is often seen clothed in it. Her nick name is adopted from the comic sheet. Her pal is a new flivver. She has studied tap and toe dancing from local and out-of-town teachers. She is a girl well liked by everyone and teased by the boys.

A LITTLE ON LIMESTONE

By Dale Strawser
Egyptians built the Pyramids of thousands of years ago the Gizeh, the Sphinx and the tomb of Pharaoh Tut-an-akh-amen, the latter which has been preserved over 3,500 years. The material they used in building these was limestone, according to pamphlets collected in the Franklin-st school museum.

Oolitic (Greek for fish, which makes up the stone) limestone is extremely strong. Its average crushing strength being 8,000 pounds per square inch in two inch cubes. A limestone bar three feet long will spring back straight after being noticeably bent.

Limestone resists 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit heat. That kind used for building purposes is composed of certain chemicals so as to resist the corrosive gases and acids of smoky city air.

Limestone is easily carved, and is cut with circular saws set in opaque diamond teeth.
